What Is It?

What a difference between then and now, in reference to church attendance on Sabbath. Then the seats were rarely ever filled; now, neighbors are called upon to supply chairs; still we do not see much, if any, improvement spiritually in the people.

Take Notice.

Some of our policemen on their rounds could make it convenient to pass the houses of the "soiled doves" they might, even in the present season, be seen in public places, and exceedingly profane and obscene language, so repulsive to public decency.

Wheeler House Items.

The guests of this establishment, like those of other public resorts, are being wined and dined in a most sumptuous manner. It is a very "thin" house. Five of the inmates struck "de groan" yesterday.

A Good Chance.

The Shockey Bros. offer their portable engine and saw-mill for sale or lease. They are forced to take this step on account of increased and constant increasing business.

Prosperous Prosperity.

An interesting correspondence of the News & Courier mentions the general prosperity of our growing neighborhood. The water works are getting up, indicating a new hotel by Messrs. Wheeler & Mosley, and the citizens are having their places remodeled, improved or painted as the case may be.

A Street Watering Cart.

The clouds of fine dust from the streets which daily fill the air, is anything but wholesome or pleasant. The perspiring pedestrian whose eyes and nostrils are closed with it and whose throat is made a sand-bar, cannot feel altogether amiable with a dusty brow under the sizzling sunbeams. Nor can the merchants look with delight upon the volumes pouring into the stores and settling all over their goods every time the wind blows on a team passing.

Nice assortment of Balm and Frames. B. C. Williams, next door to E. L. White.

That Postmastership.

F. L. Hicks, a negro school teacher of Newberry County, is endeavoring to obtain the appointment as postmaster at Prosperity. Hicks is an illiterate, and hates the white people worse than the Devil hates holy water.

Mr. Bowers, among other prominent Republicans, has signed his petition. Mr. Bowers, the present postmaster, gives general satisfaction. Columbia Register.

We endorse what the Timmonsville correspondent of the Darlington Times says last week, as being appropriate right here: "Dog-gone a nigger P. M."

Blessings of a Cotton Mill.

From an article on this subject we gather the following information of interest to many of our readers now. Whenever a cotton mill is erected in the South there grows around it and dependent upon it a thriving village of contented and prosperous people. A cotton mill not only gives work to the men, but furnishes steady employment to many women.

Fusion.

The Greenbackers or Independents and Republicans have fused and no doubt are confused by the following "Election" ticket, manufactured in Columbia last week: At large—W. D. Krum, colored, of Charleston; W. W. Russell, Independent, of Anderson.

1st District—M. H. Collins of Charleston.

2nd—W. D. Durham, Independent, of Alkon.

3d—J. C. Hannicutt, Independent, of Oconee.

4th—C. C. Turner of Spartaburg.

5th—F. A. Clinton, colored, of Laurens.

6th—Rev. J. E. Wilson, colored, of Darlington.

7th—Thos. Baskins, Independent, of Sumter.

Hot Supper.

Friday night, 10th inst., there will be a hot supper at the Helena Hotel. The proceeds to be used in furnishing additional pews to the church. More pews are sadly needed. This is uncomfortable felt when there is preaching in the church. In view of the fact that all denominations worship there (in being a union church), and the ministers of Newberry town are alternately invited to occupy the pulpit, and that the new pews are for the accommodation and welcome of the public, we think that it would be eminently right and proper that not only should the church be improved, but that the minister of the sister Newberry should send a strong delegation. It would be appreciated. But not only so; just think of the extremely low charges—25 cents for a splendid supper, embracing turkey and trimmings, chicken and sautés, ham and pickles, bread and coffee, and all other articles that usually accompany a first-class supper. Then if you want, for yourself or the young lady promising with you, or both, a slice of cake or plate of cream, or both, and a lemonade, you will be promptly, willingly, sweetly, charmingly and liberally accommodated for a very small portion of your small change.

That Recent Elopement.

The Columbia correspondent of the Charleston News and Courier of the 2nd inst. says: The Newberry Observer of today publishes a full account of the unfortunate elopement of Miss Annie Southern, of Columbia, with the sewing machine agent, Williams. This unnecessary heralding of the young girl is much regretted by the community. Everything is being done to capture the light-footed Letha.

The correspondent further says he had been urged to omit the matter in his daily report, as by that course the parties interested hoped to keep the unfortunate affair quiet, and thereby more easily effect the capture of the bigamist.

The HERALD AND NEWS was not requested to suppress the matter. It did so voluntarily. Sympathy for the little girl (who is in fact only a child) and her sorrowing mother prompted us to keep the unfortunate affair out of print. Therefore it was passed by without a single word. If this had been the only paper published here the outside world would have had to get its information from some other source. The unnecessary heralding of these unfortunate affairs tends to increase the list. We have had assurance since the last issue of this paper that our course in this matter upheld in Newberry and other parts of the State—not by the puritans perhaps, but by fathers and mothers who have daughters and by brothers who have sisters to bring up and protect. But as the affair has not been kept quiet, we quote in another column what the Columbia Register says is a truthful report.

Helena Happenings.

Mothers, do you ever think of the influence your manner must daily exert upon the characters of your children? How gentle words and loving smiles and caresses tend to sweeten their dispositions, and how an opposite course will naturally have an opposite effect. This thought was forcibly suggested to our mind the other day by a dear little girl of four or five years. Little one, we said, "what makes you so sweetly replied the child. "Who kisses you so much?" "Mama." Was ever answer more suggestive, or so full of meaning? Ah, you who have the training of these little white souls take the lesson home and learn it.

Dr. Luther Fellers, on Mr. F.'s place.

Don't forget the hot supper, with its cold cream, cake and lemonade, Friday night.

It is hot, dry, very, and dusty in the village, and news is scarce, but we had almost forgotten to say that there would be a hot supper at Helena this coming Friday night.

A VILLAIN FOILED.

FROM THE COLUMBIA REGISTER.

For the past three days rumors have been thick on the street of an elopement, in which a Columbia young lady figures prominently. As usual in such reports every narrator has a different story, and the truth is much distorted.

We have been to some pains to get at the exact state of affairs, and as this account of it can be relied upon as strictly accurate. The young lady in question has during the summer, been visiting friends who live on the suburbs of Newberry, S. C. While there she became acquainted with a man named J. Williams. Williams is an adventurer of genteel appearance, a smooth, plausible talker, he is exactly fitted for the work he is doing. He was a sewing machine agent, and insisting on leaving a machine at the house where the young lady was visiting, made it convenient to call every few days on one pretext or another. Being presented by the acquaintance of the young lady, Williams at once commenced his blandishments. The young lady who is a mere child in years, was not disposed to listen to him. Seeing this, he prevailed on mutual acquaintances to advise her to receive his attentions. The girl very readily consented, and she was finally worried into receiving his attentions. Having gained this much, he proposed that she run away with him and marry him. Again subjected to the trying ordeal of wrong and persistent advice, away from home and those who would have protected her, the girl, half dazed, yielded to him, and on Thursday, the 29th, rode into town to a minister, who, after putting the usual questions to the man to assure himself that it was right, and being plausibly answered, consented to perform the ceremony. There not being enough witnesses, the minister sent over to a school near by for his daughter to attend as a witness, and on this fact is due the frustration of a diabolical scheme. Immediately after the ceremony the parties mounted the horse, and left town for the minister's daughter returned to the school, where she told of the marriage to her companions. In a few minutes the news had spread over the school and gone out to Main street. There it reached the ears of a gentleman who but the day before had heard a rumor of Williams being a married man. This gentleman, acting with most commendable promptness, at once mounted his horse and rode out after the parties. Meeting the gentleman at whose house the young lady was staying, he accosted him with what had occurred, and also of his suspicions. Confronting Williams, they told him of the rumor against him, and questioned him as to whether he was not being married. His answers were so vague and unsatisfactory that the young lady was at once placed in charge of the ladies of the house where she had been visiting. Unfortunately Williams was not arrested, but was told to come into town to capture the light-footed Letha, on the suspicion against him. He promised to come at once, but instead mounted his horse and left for parts unknown. Since this affair it is rumored that he has been guilty of similar misdoings in another portion of the State. There is another rumor out that the day following the occurrence noted above the young lady was again a party to a marriage ceremony, this time legal and to the gentleman to whom she was engaged, but the report is untrue.
